

Disability Access and Education

- < Do your best to schedule lactation between class times. However, for long classes or back-to-back schedules, a space and time is available to you. Please discuss in advance with your instructor if you are likely to need time away from class.
- x As needed, advising mothers may leave the classroom for lactation time.
 - o There is a lactation room on every campus. Check with front desk staff at regional campuses or with Campus Outreach & Community Services <

Disability Access and Education

- Some slight schedule adjustments may need to be made if the student is expected to make a presentation or play a vital role in group activities.
 - Any discussions pertaining to temporary absence and schedule adjustments should be conducted individually with a reasonable amount of privacy.
-
- < Children are not permitted in class. Nursing rooms are available on each campus. Please see Student Handbook for more information regarding children on campus: Student Handbook.
 - < Students who need additional accommodations for medical needs should contact the Disability Access & Education office at disability.services@fresno.edu .
 - < Fresno Pacific University prohibits harassment or other discrimination against students based on their lactation, as a condition related to sex. Harassment or discrimination related to breastfeeding and lactation may be referred to the Title IX Office via _____, pam.schock@fresno.edu, or 559-453-7115 for appropriate action.